CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL WELFARE

Prominent Speakers Are Heard at Meeting of State Federation of Women's Clubs in This City.

A meeting under the New Hampshire Federation of Women's Clubs, was held here on Friday, with a large attendance from the Women's Clubs of this vicinity. The meeting is one of a series being held in the different parts of the state, under the civic department of the State Federation with the idea of discussing the social welfare and getting the members of the Women's Clubs interested in the state work.

The meeting was held in Association hall and there were a hundred present from outside clubs, and many from this city and it was of special interest.

The conference was called to order at 10.30 by Mrs. Samuel P. Hunt of Manchester, chairman of the civic department, and she made a very notable opening address on "The Civic Responsibility of New Hampshire Women." It was very interesting and at the conclusion it was under discussion for some little time.

Among the speakers were Commissioner John B. Davis of Concord, of the bureau of labor who spoke on conditions under which women and children are working in New Hampshire; Mrs. Alice B. Montgomery of Manchester, secretary of the New Hampshire Children's Aid and Protective Society, who told of rural conditions, the aim of the society, its needs, etc.; Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston, whose address was based on the subject of "The European War and American Duty," and Mrs. Samuel P. Hunt who spoke on "The Civic Responsibilities of New Hampshire Women."

In addition to these addresses Mrs. Bancroft, Mrs. Alenick, Mrs. Wood, and others prominent in the active field were heard from, all questions being opened to general discussion.

The conference opened at 11 o'clock Miss Jennie M. McDermitt, president of the state forces presiding. In her greeting she emphasized the value of the conference as a connecting link between the state federation and the club women at large. It is a medium via the route of which the club and the individual may absorb of the true federation spirit and get into closer touch with the vital work it is promoting.

Only comparatively few of the state's more than 7000 federated club women can attend the general meetings, in view of which the administration has planned a series of district conferences which will bring together large groups of women before whom the work of the state body can be presented. Through this method it is hoped to arouse greater activity and to send the Federation's message into every nook and corner of the state.

With reference to the early cultural activity of the clubs, Miss McDermitt said, "We have learned to live well in

(Special to The Herald)
Houlton, Me., Nov. 7.—Dr. Lionel E. Dudley of Presque Isle, was arrested at a local hotel here today, charged with the murder of Mildred Sullivan, the young Houlton girl who has been missing since September 4th.

Dr. Dudley, together with Miss Kate O. Michaud, a nurse, have been awaiting action by the grand jury, the latter part of this month, on the charge of performing an illegal operation on Miss Sullivan. The girl was last seen alive at Presque Isle, where she went to attend a county fair.

LIGHTS IN PLACE.

Variety of Colors at Night on Bridge Across River.

The several regulation lights ordered by the government for the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge were placed in position on the arches, highway and railroad draws, piers, etc on Friday night. A dozen or more of the red, white and green colors make up the variety. The lights are chained to the wood work to provide against being removed and thrown into the river by hoodlums, which has been the case for several years. For the present all will be used in the lamps and later it is understood electricity will be substituted.

Bombardment of Tsing-Tao Had Been in Progress Since August

The Persian Government and United States Minister Protest Against Infraction of International Law By Russians.

(Special to The Herald)

Tokio, Nov. 7.—It is officially announced that the German fortress at Tsing-Tao has surrendered to the Japanese and British forces.

It is officially announced that the first step in bringing about the surrender of the fortress occurred at midnight, when the infantry charged and occupied the middle fort of the first line of defence. In this operation they took 200 prisoners.

The fall of Tsing-Tao ends the most picturesque of the minor phases of the great world war now raging. In the little German concession on the south side of the Shantung peninsula of China there has been going on since late in August a reduced scale of war that from all accounts has duplicated nearly all the features of those battles in Europe that have resulted in the capture of fortified positions.

The capture of Tsing-Tao loses to Germany her last foothold of possessions in the Asiatic mainland as well as her last strategic position outside of the German empire in Europe.

CONFESSED TO HIDE HIS WIFE

Stone Took Murder Blame to Shield Dead Woman's Name.

Champlain, Ill., Nov. 6.—Scott Stone today denied the statement made in his written confession last Saturday, that he had dynamited his home at Pontiac, Ill., and thereby caused the deaths of his wife and four children.

He said that his wife murdered the children and killed herself and that he set fire to the house in the hope that the crime of his wife would be concealed.

Stone changed his story when confronted with evidence that the dynamite he said he had used had not been touched.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HAS QUARANTINE

Against Cattle From States
Where Foot and Mouth Disease Prevails.

Concord, Nov. 7.—Commissioner Andrew B. Walker of the department of agriculture, announced tonight that he would declare a quarantine against cattle from neighboring states, where the foot and mouth disease has developed. He said no cases have been reported in New Hampshire yet, but he has requested veterinarians throughout the state to watch for the disease and to report immediately any cases discovered.

Reports that the disease had been discovered in herds at Amherst and Mendon, Mass., today, decided Commissioner Walker to establish the quarantine at once.

Captain Ballin of Princeton is Again Candidate for All Americans

CAPTAIN BALLIN

Princeton, N. J., November 7.—If he continues his work in the big games, yet to be played his selection for the All-American team seems assured.

other acts of a serious nature, it ceases to be fun. The attempted robbery of a Kittery resident mentioned in a local paper, is the only surprise of the year, is the only conference team that has not been defeated. Illinois has mingled in five battles and has been scored on but once. That was by Minnesota last Saturday. Illinois has scored 100 points in five games; a mighty task average.

The Chicago and Wisconsin teams have not been beaten, but both have been tied. The showing to date of both these eleven has not been as good as that of Illinois. The Wisconsin eleven won for Ohio State 7 to 6 and the Illinois eleven beat Ohio State a week later 24 to 0. Chicago beat Indiana 21 to 0 and Illinois beat Indiana 51 to 0.

So, if you take the comparative showings into consideration, the fact stands out that Illinois is better than either Chicago or Wisconsin.

Wisconsin plays Minnesota today and Wisconsin may be beaten and thus eliminated from the fight. Neither Chicago nor Illinois have important games today. They fight it out at Princeton, N. J., a week from today and on the following Saturday Illinois plays Wisconsin. These two battles probably will settle the championship fight in the West.

In the Southern part of this land there are five teams that are still in the battle for the honors below the Mason & Dixon line. These five teams are Washington & Lee, Virginia, Auburn, Mississippi University and Tennessee. However, the Virginia and Washington & Lee teams do not belong to that dear old southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association and so they view things in the South.

The claim of either of these teams to the championship cannot be recognized.

Washington & Lee, however, doesn't care much whether its claim will be recognized. It rubs its scoring record of the greatest compiled by any team in the country and lets the public know its own record. Washington & Lee has scored 288 points in six games. The W. & L. defensive record also is the best, only six points having been scored against the crack eleven.

Tennessee looks to have the best team in the S. I. A. A., but it may strike a snag today when it goes up against the Vanderbilt eleven. Vanderbilt this year hasn't cut many duds in a football way. Its team was given a beating by North Carolina some weeks back and the Vanderbilt hasn't been able to perform in the style of other years. But it may do a "wonderful" against Tennessee.

Summing up the situation, the only sizeable teams in the country that have won every game played are University of Pittsburgh, Army, New York University, Washington & Lee and Union College of Schenectady, N. Y.

The list of teams that have not been beaten, but which have been tied, include Harvard, Princeton, Penna State, Wisconsin and Chicago.

Washington & Lee, with 288 points scored in six games, has the scoring record to date. Pittsburgh and Washington & Lee are tied for second place with 221 points each. The Worcester Polytechnic team of Worcester, Mass., is the only team that has failed to score.

Francis X. Bushman is seen in a unique feature of a man standing face to face with himself and the two distinctly separate characters, but identical, carrying on a conversation. Mr. Bushman is the two men, the cause of the curious picture is trick photography, or a double exposure.

James Montgomery's interesting play, "Ready Money," has been filmed by the Lasky Company. "Ready Money" although a purely American play, it enjoyed great success in seven different languages.

Richard Travers, one of Essanay's leading men, is an all-round athlete and tennis star, and is planning a tennis tournament for the championship of the company. He has challenged all comers to battle with racquets. He has won several medals in tournaments and hopes to win the company championship.

Mother's Day at a theatre in Spokane, Wash., brought forth 515 mothers carrying babies. The special attraction for the day was a feature film by the World Film Corporation "Mother." The manager of the theatre admitted all mothers free who carried babies in their arms. Pandemonium reigned supreme in the theatre, when the 315 little cherubs broke forth in a chorus of crying, laughing, crying and qualling, and it is safe to say that they kept it up throughout the entire afternoon. To transport these infantile occupants, 40 go-carts, baby carriages and perambulators were lined up in the lobby of the theatre.

Julius Caesar, the film masterpiece of 1914, by the George Kleine Italian Company is being shown in Boston at the present time. This film has been in this country less than two weeks, 20,000 people form a superb cast, 25,000 costumes were required to clothe the characters in this drama, a miniature city of Rome was built, covering six blocks and an exact reproduction of an old Gallic fortress, made of solid stone, and covering over a mile and a quarter in length, are a few of the features in this film. If you are in Boston, make it a point of seeing what is probably the greatest, most costly film ever made up to the present day.

The Progressive motion picture company has produced a film version of the book "McVeigh of the South Seas." This spectacle was staged in the South Seas.

The Ambrosio company, of Italy, has filmed a five reel masterpiece entitled "Mordina, or the Destruction of Carthage." The cost of the production being over $200,000.

John Bunny, while entertaining the Chicago multitudes last week, emphatically denied that he was dead. Said he, "Who ever starts such foolish talk do you suppose?" If it isn't Bunny that is read, it is Broncho Billy—and both of them are very much alive.

The New York Sun, Sunday, October 25, printed a communication from one of its correspondents to the effect that the Express film company, a company with the Pathe-Freres, has been officially appointed by the German government to take pictures during the course of the war. The communication states that these pictures are designed to disprove the charges of German atrocities.

Demand Thompson's great rural drama, "The Old Homestead," is to be adapted to motion pictures by the Famous Players company. This company is now making preparations to produce the film version of this celebrated play in the old New Hampshire village which suggested the drama to its author and to use the very house that is featured in the title of the subject.

Barry O'Moore has left the Edison. He has recently come to life as Herbert Vost of the Punch and Judy theatre, New York. Vost vanished from the legitimate some time ago to appear in the silent drama, under the Edison banner, and assumed the name of Barry O'Moore.

In "The Man Who Could Not Lose" the Favorite Players Film company used 1200 supernumeraries and an entire audience in a Los Angeles theatre hired for the occasion.

We will see a little bit of realism in "The Countess Sweedle" Essanay Comedy. Sweedle was supposed to make a fall of two or three steps, but slipped and fell to the bottom of the entire stairs twenty-odd steps.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES.

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Nov. 6.—In answering an inquiry from Epping, N. H., from a farmer there who wanted to know if there was any substance which would make cement pipe waterproof and which could be applied after cement has hardened, Professor R. E. Chandler, head of the mechanical engineering department here, says:

"There are many waterproofing compounds made, but all of these which I know anything about have either to be mixed with the cement when it is laid or put on immediately before the cement has set. In cases where the cement has already set, I believe the best thing that you could do would be to coat this cement with tar applied hot. If you are not able to obtain the tar, some heavy asphalt paint, such as they use for roofing, would do. I would paint the cement with this asphalt paint two or three coats. I believe that this will stop the leaking."

"If it does not, I would suggest that you point the pipe with asphalt and then wrap it with two or three thicknesses of heavy building paper, covering this with a coat of tar and then plastering it with cement. This last method would be expensive, but would probably prevent your pipes from freezing, even in the coldest weather."

Professor R. E. Chandler of the mechanical engineering department, has some suggestions as to economy in the use of gasoline on the farm. It is important that the engine be kept running at the correct speed and that the belt pulleys be properly adjusted. It should be remembered that the correct speed is almost always clearly stamped on the name plate.

If the machinery that is being driven goes too rapidly with the engine running at its proper speed, the remedy is not to slow down the engine but to alter the arrangement of the pulleys.

Too rich a mixture might reduce the speed and would result in poor economy. The proportion can be best determined by altering the carburetor so as to get under a given load the maximum revolutions. The approximate proportion for fuel is nine parts by volume of air and one part by volume of gasoline.

MAINE'S THANKSGIVING DAY

Governor Haines Calls Attention to the Virtue of Charity and to the Bright Prospects of the State.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 6.—"Remember that charity is the greatest of all virtues," said Governor William T. Haines, today, in his proclamation designating Nov. 26 as Thanksgiving Day, in which he asked for contributions for victims of the European war. He continued:

Maine has been favored by nature during the season of 1914, resulting in more than average crops, and with an unusually favorable season for harvesting them.

While we have suffered some setback in manufactures and trade, the prospects for the future, aided by the most terrible war in history, now raging in Europe, seem encouraging.

I wish to urge upon our people the contrast of our peace and prosperity with the distress and suffering in Europe, and ask that they contribute liberally for the relief of the unfortunate, but unblamable victims of the war.

WON'T SETTLE SUGAR CASE

Government Refuses Proposal Made by American Sugar Refining Co.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The American Sugar Refining Company has made another proposal to the Department of Justice to end the Government anti-trust suit against it and to settle the question of its alleged monopoly of sugar production by an agreement such as was recently made in the New Haven railroad civil case.

Although Department of Justice officials declined to discuss the proposal, it was understood here that James M. Beck, counsel for the company, made the offer and that it was declined. It was said that the fact that the case is now in the courts and that a decision may be expected shortly figured in the refusal. It is not known here just how far the company was willing to go in meeting the department's demands, but it was understood that it would not agree to all those set forth in the Government's prayer for a dissolution.

It is said that Attorney General Gregory was not convinced upon presentation of the arguments of the company's counsel that the department had anything to gain by accepting the offer of a compromise. The department took the attitude that since testimony in the case has been taken, it is worth while to wait to see how the Court looks upon the controversy.

NO CLEW TO BREAKS

The police have made a diligent investigation of the breaks in the past week, but have failed to find any clew. They are, however, convinced that it is the work of adults and possibly the same party has pulled off all of the breaks.

The non arrival of the switch and rails for the Bartlett street switch, has delayed the railroad crew, and has held up the paving contractors who have the concrete laid as far as Bartlett street and are now laying the bricklike top.

A Swede employed in a tailor shop here, was arrested Friday afternoon charged with larceny.

Officer Anderson picked up a street walker on Friday evening. She claims to belong in Massachusetts.

There were eight drunks nine lodgers, one street walker and one for far away on the police blotter last night.

ESTIMATES GERMAN LOSS TO DATE IS 1,750,000

London, Nov. 6.—In this morning's Daily News H. H. Bellows estimates the German losses to date at 1,750,000 men. He writes:

"I know that the figure looks startlingly large, but the various steps by which it was arrived at are not, I think, open to criticism. It would be easy, by a little manipulation of men and figures to make out very much larger totals. I have attempted, on the contrary, to fix the lowest conceivable minimum."

The figure 1,750,000 includes losses by sickness, illness, fatigue and accidents. The strict German losses in the field, men hit or caught, he puts at more than a million and a quarter.

"These losses," Hallow declares, "have almost up to within the last two weeks or so fallen in the main upon the trained troops of the enemy, and with particular severity upon the body of officers."

Business Outlook Brightening.

The general business outlook is constantly brightening, according to views that should be accepted as good authority on the subject. The National City Bank of New York has settled down to the conclusion that the duration of the European war will be longer than was at first anticipated. In its November letter it says: "The idea that the effectiveness of modern weapons and the costly scale of operations would force an early peace has been generally abandoned," and then goes on to say that "affairs in this country are moving in an orderly manner toward recovery." It points out that the banks in the central cities have restored their legal reserves, that money is easier, that fears of a financial crisis have disappeared and that things are looking better all along the line. The grain and meat producing sections of the country are experiencing exceptional prosperity, the demand for their products being immense and prices high.

In addition to this fibre and fabric, one of the leading textile publications of New England, sees prosperity ahead in all textile lines, particularly in the line of woolen goods. It says the demand for army blankets is such that no mill capable of turning them out need be idle, and that it would be glad to get in touch with any such mills that have not all the business they can attend to. The publication adds that apparently other than blanket mills are speeding up their machinery, and "evidence of better business in all textile lines is furnished by the increased operation of machinery and the growing demand for help. The wheels are beginning to turn in a normal way and the serious problem is enough skilled help to permit of capacity production."

This is very encouraging, but it is strictly in line with what it was reasonable to expect. With so many foreign nations at war the work of production there is inevitably crippled where not completely paralyzed, and this must necessarily mean more business for the United States. Right-minded people cannot rejoice that business should be brought to the country in such a way, but as it comes through no fault of the American people they have the right to accept and make the most of it, and this they will do.

The finance commission of Boston finds that some of the city employees are getting fat perquisites in addition to liberal salaries, including house rent and other important concessions. This has probably been going on for a long time, for the wife of one department superintendent has plucked up the courage to suggest that the city should pay the wages of her hired girl. How natural it is for those who get their hands into the public treasury to turn them in a little deeper.

Now the Dominican tobacco growers want help from the United States government. The call is for neutral vessels for shipping the crop, but Uncle Sam with all his resources can hardly be expected to finance the planters of this country and the rest of the world, even though they are feeling to some extent the effects of the war.

The train that carried $15,000,000 in gold from Denver to Boston a few days ago was well guarded, but none too well. There are men in this country to whom such a shipment would have offered a strong temptation if they had known when the train was to pass certain points along the line.

The kaiser in addressing a regiment the other day is reported to have said: "When the war is finished we should see each other again." Perhaps some of them will, but the chances are that there will be large holes in the ranks when they meet again.

The eyes of the country are on Vermont, not because of the election outcome there, but because of the wide and deadly swath cut by the wood alcohol whiskey recently dispensed by a Green Mountain druggist. He has much to answer for.

Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts is still worrying over the "utterly inadequate" defenses of this country. He should be very popular with the battleship builders and other seekers of fat government contracts.

Vienna is trying to induce the students in the university there to enlist as a home guard, but most of them respectfully decline. Have they learned in the course of their studies that "Discretion is the better part of valor?"

The Panama canal appears to be a sort of "off again, on again" proposition. One batch of mud is hardly removed from the big ditch before there is another slide.

Mexico has a new president—for 20 days only. His views on the question of a second term would be interesting.

Read the President's Thanksgiving Day proclamation and live up to it.

What a Single German Shell From A "Busy Bertha" Did to a Home

This picture shows most graphically the destruction wrought by a single German shell from a 42 centimeter gun, the great sixteen and a half inch engine of horror that the Kaiser has won most his battles in Belgium with and nicknamed by the French "Busy Bertha." The shell tore the whole front of the residence out and ripped up the floors inside. When one looks at this picture he can readily understand why Liege, Louvain, Tervuren, Malines, Antwerp and other places in Belgium were conquered by the Germans.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

New Hampshire Election.
 The Democratic party of this state has been found wanting and has been repudiated by the people. The Republican party has again been given a vote of confidence and has been returned to power.

It accepts the responsibility imposed upon it by the election, and it is to enter upon its duties next January with a full sense of its obligations to the public. The pledges made in its platform will be kept. To seek to avoid them in any way would be fatal to the future success of the party.

As Governor Spaulding well said in the campaign: "The Republican party will build most successfully upon achievements." The party is reunited once more by the return of those who left it two years ago, and the confidence they have shown in its pledges will not be betrayed.

The victory in this state is apparently complete. In spite of the partisan gerrymandering of the last legislature of senatorial and congressional districts, Governor Spaulding will have supporting him a Republican council and a Republican legislature.

Through their co-operation New Hampshire will once more enjoy a business administration such as the state had prior to the advent of the Democratic party two years ago.

In the closing week of the campaign the whole Democratic attack centered upon Senator Gallinger. It was vicious and malignant. The national administration desired his defeat more than that of any other Republican. Every influence was brought to bear to prevent his return to the senate. His colleague forgot his own manhood in the venom he displayed towards his neighbor and his associate in the senate.

Senator Hollis overstepped the mark as he has frequently done since his election, and insulted the pride of New Hampshire. The Democratic votes cast for Senator Gallinger make the victory of the latter a state as well as a party triumph.

New Hampshire is to be congratulated on the result of Tuesday's election.—Telegraph.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Editor of the Herald:

The signed article in a recent issue of the Herald, under the heading "What it Means," evidently was written by the author when completely under a spell of partisan intoxication. One is led by this article to think that a great repudiation of the Democratic party occurred at the last election. Among other things equally without foundation of fact is this statement: "Many an old-fashioned Democrat has come forward and, with a courage worthy of all praise, has voted for Republican candidates." The facts as shown by the election returns are as follows:

Wilson's vote for president in New Hampshire, 1912.....34,724
 Pelker for governor, 1912.....34,208
 Stevens for senator, 1914.....35,044
 Noone for governor, 1914.....33,514

Mr. Stevens' vote exceeds President Wilson's vote by 320 and Governor Pelker's by 841. The same situation exists in this congressional district.

Congressman Reed's vote of 1914 exceeds that of 1912, when he was elected.

The election returns fail absolutely to show that any one formerly voting the Democratic ticket has repudiated the party. In fact, the party vote is increased almost without exception. As regards the nation, it is hard to understand how a Republican "landslide" could possibly leave the Democratic party in control of the United States Senate by 10 to 16 majority and of the House by the very substantial majority of 23 to 25.

Evidently no political landslide occurred at the last election, but the Democratic party won a very substantial victory in the nation. President Wilson can still do business at Washington during his term of office with a Congress in accord with him and the era of great prosperity now dawning upon this country cannot now be attributed by demagogic spellbinders to the election of a Republican Congress.

Putting the "IT" in Profit.

Well planned, well timed newspaper advertising puts the "IT" in profit for the national manufacturer. It makes easy the problem of distribution, it solves the question of dealer co-operation. Newspaper advertising creates an immediate demand which knocks at the dealer's doorstep. The retailer naturally moves with the tide. He likes to buy goods his public wants. He favors the wares advertised in newspapers because it is good business to do so.

Manufacturers anxious to know how to secure better dealer co-operation are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

BARACA CLUB FORMED BY MEN OF KITTELY

First Meeting Held on Friday Evening Is Followed by Banquet.

On Friday evening, the men of the Second Christian church, Kittery, met in the vestry and formed what will henceforth be known as the Baraca Club. The meeting was a very large and enthusiastic one. It was called to order at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. C. J. Yeomans. After an explanation and aims of the club, the following officers were elected:

President—C. J. Yeomans.
 Vice-President—Burleigh Jones.
 Secretary—Clarence L. Moody.
 Asst. Secretary—Clifford M. Jenkinson.
 Treasurer—Aaron Brackett.
 The following committees were appointed:

The Hosts—Ralph P. Cobb.
 Membership—Floyd R. Walker.
 Social—Walter L. Thompson.
 Music—Albert L. Sprague.
 Literary—Carl A. Meyer.
 Athletic—Frank M. Smith.

Aaron Brackett, Raymond W. Brackett, Russell Brackett, Ralph P. Cobb, John D. Curry, Edwin A. Duncan, Louis H. Gray, Clifford M. Jenkinson, Burleigh Jones, William Locke, Carl A. Meyer, Clarence L. Moody, Howard C. Moody, Lindsey N. Morrow, Thomas Plumpton, Frank M. Smith, Albert L. Sprague, Winfield Sprague, Charles T. Trafton, Walter L. Thompson, Floyd R. Walker, James Webber, Rev. C. J. Yeomans.

The vestry was prettily decorated with blue and white crepe paper festoons, the colors of the club. After the meeting was adjourned those present sat down to a banquet served by the ladies of the church. It was excellently served and everyone did full justice to it. The menu was as follows: Salads, pickles, cake, pies, pudding, fruit, coffee and ice cream.

Following the banquet, plans for the future of the club were discussed by the members. A basketball team is to be organized, and there is plenty of good material at hand to make it a winning team. It is hoped to steadily increase the membership of the club, and to promote the interests of the young men of the village in general.

GERMAN FORTRESS HAS FALLEN

making violent attacks in the northern sphere of action, according to an official announcement made here this afternoon.

Two vigorous attacks by the Germans, one on the La Bassée canal, and the other southeast of Ypres, in Belgium, have been repulsed by the French and British troops.

The Germans south of Neuport have made hard counter-attacks upon the Belgians, but the latter were reinforced in time.

DETAILED TO BURY THE DEAD

(Special to The Herald)
 London, Nov. 7.—Five thousand men have been detailed by the allies to bury the dead on the battlefield around Dixmude, according to a press dispatch.

The Germans are reported to have lost between 35,000, and 40,000 men, while the British, French and Belgian loss was close to 20,000.

GERMAN ATTACKS ARE REPULSED

(Special to The Herald)
 Paris, Nov. 7.—Night and day counter-attacks by the Germans in the region between the La Bassée canal and Arras, and between Arras and the Oise river have been repulsed by the allies.

MANY LEFT ON BATTLEFIELD

(Special to The Herald)
 Paris, Nov. 7.—It is officially reported that in the recent fighting near Nancy, a single German battalion left 800 dead on the battlefield. This severe loss is an indication of the fierceness of the fighting on the Moselle.

Two complete German detachments got lost in a fog, near Lens, and surrendered.

Dispatches from Selones state that German soldiers disguised as women were captured while digging potatoes. Other German soldiers in feminine attire were arrested while guiding a supply train.

Miss Persce Ryan has returned home after spending a few days with Mrs. Michael Lynch.

CURRENT OPINION

AUSTRIA HAD TO ACT IN SELF DEFENSE

The kingdom of Serbia, elated by its recent success in the Balkan war, which nearly doubled its population, instead of directing its efforts toward healing the wounds inflicted on Macedonia, with its burned villages and decimated population, could not or would not refrain from keeping alive the agitation against the integrity of the dual monarchy.

Austria had to clear up the situation once and forever. The question of keeping her southern provinces intact is a vital issue. She had to act in self defense. She wants no enlargement of territory and proved this during the last Balkan war, when it would have been easy for her to occupy all the territory now acquired by Serbia. Austria-Hungary requires guarantees for the future, without which the peace in the Balkans cannot be maintained.—By Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, Ambassador of Austria-Hungary to the United States.

LOOKING AT A PHOTOGRAPH.

(No. of Bank, 401)

Better Effects Are Obtained When Only One Eye Is Used.

Photographs should be looked at with only one eye, to appear best, says F. W. Marlow, in an article on "How to Look at a Photograph," in the Photo Era.

"Most photographs, particularly small ones of landscapes, street scenes and interiors, fail to produce their full effect, or to be estimated at their true value because they are not looked at in the most effective way," the author says. "Take as an example a print resulting from a camera with a five inch focus lens. Such a print is usually looked at with both eyes open and held at a distance of twelve inches or more. Now a camera is essentially a one eyed instrument, or, at any rate, it views the object to be reproduced from a single point, the optical center of the lens. The object must be looked at, therefore, with one eye only and from a point corresponding as nearly as possible to the optical center of the lens if its characteristics as it is to be reproduced in the camera are to be appreciated.

"Let it be remembered that when a print is looked at with both eyes open binocular vision emphasizes the flatness of the card, and this tends to offset the illusion of greater or less distance produced by the light and shade and perspective of the print. By using one eye the impression of flatness is greatly diminished. If at the same time the eye be placed at the right distance everything is seen under its natural angle or perspective, and the picture unfolds itself, the different objects receding to their proper relative distances, making details very obvious which may be unnoticed if looked at in the ordinary way.

"As a sort of corollary to the above use one eye alone to decide whether a landscape or other scene is worth taking. If with one eye the scene looks flat it will not make a satisfactory photograph."

JAPAN'S DARING WHALERS.

They Risk Drowning to Escape the Infuriated Animal's Tail.

Many of the Japanese whalers are most expert and daring men. After a whale has been cornered, harpooned and is slowly giving out from exhaustion the nimble expert of the whaling crew must prove his mettle.

The skilled Jap, after jumping upon the animal's back and cutting two gashes in the head, one on each side, through which a rope must be run and tied, cannot always perform his work in one trial. Often the animal makes a deep dive. But the little Jap must hold fast to his quarry and dive also, trusting to his fates that his own air supply in his lungs will last as long as the whale's.

The Jap is safer from being drowned than from being crushed by the infuriated animal's tail. If the little Jap let go it usually means death, so he hangs on to the diving quarry. Frequently these whalers lose their lives from drowning, but the members of their crew look upon this misfortune with something of a fatalistic regard.

But the main business in hand is the capture of the whale. As the fight progresses and the maddened, frightened animal grows weaker and finally is dying the boat crews row closer to the body and pray for the ease of the departing spirit. Members of the crew will call out the words "Joraku, Joraku, Joraku!" and on the third day after the animal has been hauled ashore a service is held and prayers offered for the animal's future contentment in spirit.

As soon as the animal has been towed to the shore line he is cut up, the lops making huge excavations and penetrating inside the animal's body as though entering a mine shaft or gallery and eventually making their exit, all covered with blood. It is a gruesome sight, but is looked upon purely as a matter of course among the Jap whalers.—Exchange.

As the result of an unusually warm October, flowers of many different varieties are still in bloom. Mrs. Clarence Lewis has a Dorothy Perkins rose in full bloom. Mrs. Charles Tobey has dahlias which have sprouted and grown several inches, and Mrs. Henry Moulton's bed of pansies has many blossoms. In the well known flower garden of Ivory Bluff is to be seen a flourishing bed of chrysanthemums, while Miss Alice Patch the florist, still has sweet peas, pink, marigold, and bachelor buttons.

our homes and now the time has come for us to learn to live better in our communities."

Mrs. Charles S. Lovell, president of the (Hafford) Club of Portsmouth, speaking for the clubs of that city, extended a gracious welcome to the visitors.

Mrs. Samuel P. Hunt of Manchester chairman of the clubs committee was introduced per appeal being for public spirited work along lines of civic duty.

The clean home she asserted, demands clean approaches and urged club women to co-operate in securing clean sidewalks, streets that shall be free from waste and litter of all kinds and that individuals and as clubs, an interest be taken in clean-up, paint up campaign in all work that tends to improve conditions under which people are living.

She asked that the ventilation of public places be a matter of public concern, that trash cans be established and that every club wake up to the fact that it has a definite responsibility. "Each club," she said, "should decide upon something and get it done."

Commissioner Davis, speaking of children under which women and children are working in New Hampshire, said the bureau is very glad to answer by letter any questions affecting industrial conditions. "If you know of violations of the labor laws," he said, "and will take the trouble to write the bureau, we will do what can be done towards adjusting matters."

He defined his duties as commissioner, stating his supervision includes 500 workshops and factories, in any thing of the mercantile establishments.

"Organized club work and workers," he said, "have done more than any other agency to bring about right conditions for working women in New Hampshire."

Mr. Davis strongly advocated the need of a women inspector in the factories. He further urged that club women make it a business of meeting working girls in a friendly, big sister sort of a way, finding out from them what their working problems are and by what means they are meeting them.

He referred to the 55 hour law and the pit falls which may beset its course in the next legislature, intimating it to be the duty of the clubs to see that women are not deprived of the law giving them shorter hours.

The matter of the small wage was touched upon and here again, he believes the influence of organized work would prove of value. Employers as a whole, he stated, are co-operating with the bureau, but there are still many conditions to be looked into and many problems to be solved. In closing, he expressed the hope that the club which has kept the social and industrial classes apart will soon be closed forever and that the women of means and influence will give generously of her time and influence to the end of obtaining the best possible conditions for her working sister.

Mrs. James W. Remick, reporting social and industrial conditions in the state, told of plans under way and suggestions to go forth very shortly to every club in the state. In the face with the policy established by the general federation chairman, she said, we shall centralize largely upon a living wage for women.

"It would seem wise for our committee to make a thorough study of the women immigrants who are coming to our state so rapidly, and who are especially subjected to certain abuses and wrongs."

"In behalf of the women immigrants I feel that the club women should bring all possible pressure to bear upon the federal government in order that we may have our ports of entry women inspectors, with the rank and pay of men inspectors. Instead of two matrons that are now serving in such places, and that we agitate as well the need of trained social service workers as matrons on our through trains and steamship lines and at the stations in the large cities; the need of proper supervision of moving picture houses, dance halls and all public recreation places where young people congregate; also the need of one or more police women in every municipality of any size. If the head of the public departments are doing conscientious work they will welcome the addition of police women to the force."

I am quite sure the secretaries of the Railroad Y. M. C. A.'s can furnish valuable data showing the need of proper supervision of the stations. Such research work systematically conducted would bring to light to what extent the police do or do not profit by the (White Slave) traffic, and would demonstrate clearly the need of creating properly supervised social centers, such as our schools would furnish, and proper civilization of the rural districts. I also believe it should be the earnest purpose of the club women throughout this country to find to what extent delinquent girls are being cared for, and urge the legislators of our state to provide a suitable industrial school, detention home, or state farm in order that the young girls who are just beginning to drift about the streets shall be educated at the expense of the state and without any stigma along the line of useful arts such as housekeeping, sewing, cooking, gardening and all kinds of wholesome outdoor sports.

OBITUARY

Ezra Cousins

Ezra Cousins, who fatally injured by a fall from a load of hay in Newington, late Friday afternoon, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Hall on Sagamore avenue, shortly after six o'clock this Saturday morning. He was born in Kennebunk, March 13, 1829, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cousins. When a young man he went to Boston for several years where he was engaged in the teaming business. He then moved to Dover Point where he resided for forty six years being engaged in farming in a small way. For the past sixteen years he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Hall of this city. He was a man that was universally respected by all who knew him, and the sympathy of a large circle of friends is extended to his two surviving daughters, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Stacey.

community I would further urge personal state control of our feeble minded women of child-bearing age. We hope to forward the cause of prison reform mind contract labor.

Each club will be asked to appoint a committee to arrange for one meeting in interests of social and industrial conditions during the year.

Mrs. Hancock, chairman of the committee on legislation, reported tentative work of her committee which has now been getting into line for earnest effort during the approaching session of the legislature. She made fervent appeal for the support of the club women as individuals, the committee, she said, "needs your careful and intelligent co-operation."

She asked that women inform themselves concerning proposed legislation and that they use their influence to best advantage through personal appeals to the legislators.

Among bills referred to by Mrs. Hancock, was that relating to better supervision of schools, with reference to rural communities. "The law," she said, "should be amended so all schools in the state will be properly supervised. Still another interest, will be readjustment of juvenile court laws.

"At present in this state," she affirmed, "the law is almost a farce. It is not right or just that the child who has committed misdemeanor as a result of exuberance of youth, lack of training, or something of that sort, should be stigmatized a criminal."

Mrs. Hancock urged support of bills which will be introduced with reference to the care of the feeble-minded, and of other proposed legislation affecting home and community life.

Peace and War

The first speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead, of Boston, who has but recently returned from Europe after special study of the peace and war problem. Her subject was "European War and American Duty."

She said in part: "We stand at the turning point in human history. Either the war system must be abolished and world organization provide peaceful settlement of all disputes between nations or civilization will go down."

"As I am watching Europe, I feel this war the war system is renewed conscription will become universal and an Asiatic-European war will some time ensue. All that makes life worth living is jeopardized. Never was there such an opportunity for America to help the exhausted powers as when this war ends. If today our thoughtful people perceive the stupendous significance of the situation and prepare for American leadership and peace."

"The war was not due to man's bloodthirstiness. No nation wanted war. It was the natural consequence from the four engendered by eight stupendous armaments."

"The philosophy of militarism has collapsed. The militarists claim that only by high armaments could peace be assured."

"In time of peace prepare for war. They got what they prepared for. Eight nations own blue-tinted of the armament of the world. Six of them are now at war. Italy has just ended war; the United States has just escaped."

"Now in the time of war we must prepare for peace. The war was due to the fact that there was lacking for the forces of sanity to mobilize. Voters were muzzled, bound hand and foot and found no means of expression."

"The first step towards reform must be delay before hostilities. Had the European powers signed such treaties as the 25 recently signed by the United States, calling for a year's delay on questions of dispute, there would have been no European war."

"If America will maintain her moral leadership, let her call a halt in the increase of armament, at least until this war is over."

To Provide Assistant

Mrs. Alice H. Montgomery, secretary of the New Hampshire Aid and Protective Society, in her address to the conference made the importance of her work so deeply felt that the conference voted to recommend to the executive board of the federation that the salary of an assistant be borne by that organization for the period of one year.

No more ethical work is being done along welfare lines in the state than that promoted by this society, under the direction of Mrs. Montgomery, in her address at this time she showed up moral conditions, cited numerous cases dealt with since the society began its work less than one year ago.

Prior to the close of the conference a rising vote of thanks was extended the Portsmouth clubs for the cordiality of their entertainment and reception.

There is an air of refinement about Dorothy Dodd Shoes that you don't find in ordinary footwear. It's just as distinctive as the difference between the person of cultured taste and the boor.

Of course, there is a reason—the designers of Dorothy Dodd Shoes are the men with the "know how."

In addition to refinement Dorothy Dodd Shoes really fit the feet and give more than the full measure of service.

The woman who gets Dorothy Dodd's makes no mistake. She's simply treating her feet courteously and conscientiously at a minimum expense for good shoes.

CATTLE QUARANTINE IN MASSACHUSETTS

Dreaded Foot and Mouth Disease Has Gained Foothold in That State.

Boston, Nov. 6.—A state-wide quarantine, prohibiting the shipment of cattle in or out of Massachusetts, was established today by Fred F. Walker, commissioner of animal industry, as a result of the discovery of several cases of the hoof and mouth disease.

Four cases have been located in Attleboro and traced to the Brighton cattle yards. Commissioner Walker said: One cow which had been inspected and passed at Brighton was found to have the disease in the town of Mendon and to have infected several other cows there. Cases have also been found in Amherst.

Quarantine stations in Somerville, Watertown, and Brighton have been closed by Commissioner Walker.

Asks Prompt Reports
"I want to bring home to cattle owners the necessity of promptly reporting all evidences of this disease," Mr. Walker said. "It has been the practice in the past for federal and state authorities to reimburse owners whose cattle have been killed as a means to wards fighting the disease, and I have no doubt that the Legislature will take care to see that no man suffers any financial loss as a result of any killing that this department may order."

Meat prices in the local market show only slight changes, notwithstanding the sharp advance predicted as a result of the cattle quarantine placed over six states in an effort to stamp out the foot and mouth disease.

Some of the higher grades of beef were selling about half a cent higher in a wholesale way, though the general run of cattle were quoted at the same prices obtained prior to the outbreak of the disease in some of the western livestock markets. As the wholesale beef market closes for the week at 3 o'clock today, it is unlikely that there will be any further advance before Monday, anyway. Moreover, packers state that present supplies of dressed beef are large, and should livestock prices advance further during the time western stockyards are closed no material change is anticipated. Still, the situation is somewhat complicated, pending the efforts to stamp out the disease.

WHAT FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IS AND HOW CATTLE ARE AFFECTED.

"The widespread outbreak of the foot and mouth disease among cattle, cases of which were discovered in Massachusetts yesterday for the first time, has demonstrated the necessity for the recognition of the symptoms of this disease at an early date, and therefore prevent its spread throughout the entire herd," is the declaration of Fred F. Walker, commissioner of the Board of Animal Industries.

"The disease, as the name implies, attacks the feet and mouths of cattle," said Mr. Walker. "The first symptom that an animal has been attacked is a nervous tremor of the lips, accompanied by profuse drooling. Upon examination, it is found that the membrane lining the mouth is covered with numerous abscesses, which create foul-smelling pus. On the hoofs of the animal—in cows in the cleft of the hoof—is found a like series of abscesses. Sometimes after the animal has been attacked with the disease, the udder becomes infected and a sloughing of the teats is sometimes the result of this infection.

"The disease is not always fatal. Whether the animal dies depends upon the violence of the attack. But unless stringent measures are taken to quarantine the animal affected, the disease spreads rapidly throughout the entire herd. Some animals recover in four weeks and others take two months before they are well again. While the animal is suffering from an attack of the foot and mouth disease all of the products of that animal should be destroyed. The disease was first discovered in this country about the year 1902, though it has been known in the countries of Europe for generations."

"The disease is one that is not necessarily fatal, though it destroys cattle for marketing purposes. It may be transmitted in milk to human beings but is not likely to be fatal."

The first symptom of the disease is salivation, or drooling at the mouth. Upon examination of the feet abscesses may be found between the toes and at the top of the hoof, and also in the mouth. The cattle stand "hunched up" and with heads slightly erect. High temperature accompanies the earlier symptoms.

DIDN'T TAKE THE HOLE.

But That Was Probably Because the Court Said They Shouldn't.

An amusing instance of legal sharp practice is set forth in the annals of Westbury, N. H. It occurred a hundred years ago, when, it seems, lawyers were quite an adroit in quibbling as to the rights of their successors are today.

A farmer of broken fortunes hired for cultivation a piece of land, agreeing to pay for the use thereof with a certain proportion of the crop. He planted potatoes and had an unusual degree of success. Being without a storeroom, he obtained the consent of a neighboring landholder and deposited his share of the potatoes in what farmers call a potato hole—that is, an excavation in the earth in which the potatoes are placed and covered with earth and straw in the form of a pyramid.

Shortly afterward he had occasion to go to Connecticut, and one of his creditors seized the opportunity to attach the potato hole.

Upon this another creditor hestitated himself and consulted a lawyer as to what could be done to secure his claim. The attorney was equal to the occasion. He secured the issuing of a second writ, by which an attachment was levied upon the potatoes in the potato hole, the documents specifically setting forth that the potato hole should be left upon the land where it was found.

The warrant was promptly served, and when the first creditor appeared upon the scene he found the potato hole, but not the potatoes. Case and Comment.

DEMORALIZED THE ENEMY.

An Unexpected Charge That Resulted in Rout and Annihilation.

There have been many curious bits of strategy in warfare, but none more effective than the charge of the Tercera when threatened by the Spaniards.

Early in the morning of the 25th day of July, 1581, the inhabitants of the village of St. Sebastian, Isle of Terceira, one of the Azores or western group, were alarmed at the sight of a squadron, consisting of seven large Spanish war galleons anchored off the little bay at Balga, the operations for landing a hostile force being actually in progress.

Hastily summoning some companies of militia and collecting behind a neighboring knoll a large herd of seal with cattle from the neighborhood reserves, the Spaniards bravely awaited the landing of the Portuguese on the beach.

When this had been accomplished the Tercerans advanced close up to the foe, as if to the attack, when, suddenly opening out into two long columns and leaving a wide, open space between the numerous cattle, the foremost thundering down the center, guided on by plunders on horseback. So unusual and unexpected a charge threw the Spaniards into complete disorder, and being at once set upon by the landers, scarcely a man escaped to the ships, several guns which had been hauled ashore as spoil to the conquerors. Exchange.

The Test of Art.

Where the weakness of the artistic life really lies is that it is often not taken up out of mere communicativeness and happy excitement, as a child tells a breathless tale, but as a device for attracting the notice and earning the applause of the world, and then it is on a par with all other self-regarding activities. But if it is taken up with a desire to give rather than to receive as an irrefragable sharing of delight it becomes not a solemn and dignified affair, but just one of the most beautiful and mending impulses in the world.—A. C. Benson in Century Magazine.

Strong Hack Saw Blades.

The layman watching a tiny hack saw blade working its way through a tough piece of steel is filled with wonder, for it seems like putting a tiny boy to do the task of a giant. The latest idea is that of making a saw which has a soft, flexible back with hard tempered teeth. At a test of the strength of this blade it was found that it would support two men, representing a total weight of 283 pounds, without breaking.

Histrionic Requirements.

"There is no reason for mentioning your name," said the eminent player. "You are a press agent; not an actor." "Believe me," replied Mr. Boostington, "a press agent has to be some actor to convince a star that he believes all the things he hummers out on the typewriter."—Washington Star.

NATIONAL HYMNS.

Inspiring Anthems of the Great States of Europe

SING THE PRIDE OF COUNTRY.

Patriotic Airs of Austria, Russia, France, Germany, England and Norway—Our Own "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and "Yankee Doodle."

The Austrian national anthem is one of the finest in existence. It was composed in 1797 by that great national composer, Haydn, who is chiefly known to concert goers by his magnificent oratorio "The Creation," in which occurs the splendid and florid chorus, "The Heavens Are Telling." The anthem was based upon an old national song, but Haydn made it a thing of beauty. It is the only national anthem composed by a musician of the foremost rank.

But the song which is sung in cities by civilians is not always, or indeed, generally, the one sung by the soldiers who have to bear the brunt of battle, and siege and march. The battle song of the Austrian soldier is "Prinz Eugen der edle Ritter," which tells how the noble cavalier, Prince Eugene of Savoy, laid siege to and captured Belgrade from the Turks in 1717. It ought to be a good song for the purpose, for it was actually written in the trenches before Belgrade.

Probably the most stately national anthem is the Russian, "His very title, "God the All-Terrible," seems to strike a heroic strain. Sung by a great mass of peasant soldiers with simple fervor its effect is grand in the extreme. Played upon the great organ in the cathedral at Moscow it sounds like a prayer. Not only are the words very poetical, but the tune is forceful and haunting.

Of course the greatest of all war songs pure and simple is unquestionably "The Marseillaise." What memories it has elicited to its fervidly patriotic words! It was the song of the French revolution and all those to bring down the dynasty of the Bourbons that half a dozen army corps. It was called by the name which still is universally applied to it, because the men and women of Marseilles, the port of the Mediterranean, marched all the way to Paris, singing it as they went. Its first fruits were reaped a few days after their arrival, when the hated Bastille fell to its strains. It is now the national anthem of republicans France.

In Germany no patriotic song has been sung with such fervor as the famous battle hymn of the Germans, "Die Wacht am Rhein" ("The Watch on the Rhine"). It was written in 1840, but remained practically unknown until the outbreak of the war with France, when it was sung by every soldier and every man, woman and child throughout the German empire. "The Watch on the Rhine" was in Germany at that time what "The Marseillaise" was to France—a soul stirring composition which made men eager to take up arms and fight for the cause which they thought was right.

England's national anthem is a Georgian product and originally opened with the words, "God bless great George, our King." It has been honored by Beethoven with seven variations for the piano, and it is introduced into his "Battle Symphony." On the whole, perhaps, the tune to which is sung "God Save the King" has probably the largest circulation of any tune in the world. Then there is "Rule Britannia," which was composed by Dr. Arne, the English musician, who wrote several operas. "Rule Britannia" was included in the "Masque of Alfred," a musical farce produced in 1740.

Just as the Austrian national anthem is the only one set to music by a great composer, so the Norwegian anthem is the only one whose words were written by a real poet. This was Bjornstjerne Bjornson. On one occasion he was asked when he got the greatest pleasure out of his fame as a national poet. He replied: "It was when a delegation from the right came to my house in Christiana and smashed all my windows. Because when they had done all the damage they could and were starting home again they felt they ought to sing something. So they began to sing, 'Yes, We Love This Land of Ours.' They could do nothing else. They were obliged to sing the song of the man whom they had attacked."

Singularly enough, the country which has the best variety of patriotic anthems is the country which has had less warfare than any other, the United States of America. Her songs are fine.

The real national anthem of America is "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and it is sung to the same tune as "God Save the King." But perhaps the real, genuine, rock bottom anthem of America, after all, is the famous "Yankee Doodle," which has the great advantage of being a real marching song, which not only helps to keep the men's spirits from flagging, but also helps to keep them in step. A land playing "Yankee Doodle" would take a regiment ten miles farther than any other tune!—London Tit-Bits.

MUST STORM THE FORTS.

It Is Not Good Tactics For an Army to Pass Around Them.

Why not go around a fort instead of trying to storm it? Why not climb the ramparts and proceed swiftly onward with the army intact, leaving the soldiers in the fort, after a manner of speaking, holding the sack as well as the fort?

An officer in the cavalry of the United States army explained why such a strategy isn't used and why it cannot be used.

"If it is a mountainous country the fort would be placed in the pass, the only road through which an invading army could travel," he explained. "There would be no fortification on either side, but it would be impossible to move an army with its guns and supplies over the mountains. A single man would have a hard time making the trip."

"Suppose the country were level and the forts were forty or fifty miles apart. In that case it apparently would be easy for the army to pass between the strongholds. The army tries it. The defenders of the country throw up field fortifications between the forts. Behind every rock and roll in the ground a man with a gun is hidden. Rifle pits are dug hastily. The invaders encounter opposition, but perhaps they sweep on."

"Then this would happen: The forces from the forts would sweep out across the rear and cut off the base of supplies. The invaders would be without food, and the men would have no time for sleep."

"In two days the organization would be destroyed, and the enemy's cavalry approaching from the rear would cut the invaders to bits. Soldiers without food and denied sleep can't fight. Also remember their discipline best on full stomachs. An army cut off from its base of supplies would fall apart and be an easy prey for a much smaller force."

"It is better to take the fort if possible. The communication with the rear, where the supplies are, is thus interrupted, and most of the opposing force is driven away."—Kansas City Times.

Tried It on the Portman.

A young business woman on her way to the car at closing time, stopped at the hotel to mail a letter. Just as she was about to drop the letter in the box the collector arrived and, reaching for it, said, "I'll take it."

"The young woman looked at him a moment and handed him the letter, with the remark, 'Now, don't forget to put that in the postbox.'"

The collector looked at her in disgust and said nothing.

"He never saw the joke," the young woman said after she had told the story of the incident. "I suppose he has no women folk in his family who know that the letters they thrust in the mail are carried around in their pockets for days before they are mailed."—Columbus Dispatch.

He Brought Them.

Mr. Sweet opened the door of the kitchen and said: "Hello, Ed; company for dinner." "Goodness, Tom, you don't mean that you have brought any one home to dinner tonight?" queried the wife.

"Sure I have," replied Mr. Sweet. "Haven't you got my grub for them?" "Why, no," said the wife despairingly. "Don't you remember you told me you would bring home a couple of lobsters for dinner, and I depended on them?"

"Well," said Tom, "they're here."—National Monthly.

Doring Thin Glass.

Everybody who has tried understands how difficult it is to bore a hole in a strip of thin glass. The following method is said to be very successful: Press a cake of wet clay upon the glass and then make a hole through the clay of the desired size, laying bare the glass at the bottom of the hole. Then pour melted lead into the hole, and it will drop through the glass, making a round aperture. The explanation is that the sudden application of heat cracks the glass in a circle corresponding in size with the hole in the clay.—New York Tribune.

AUSTRIANS ROUTED BY THE RUSSIANS

Petrograd, Nov. 6.—The Russians have recaptured the Galician town of Jaroslaw and have taken 5000 Austrian prisoners, according to a telegram received here today from Lemberg. Jaroslaw is 17 miles northwest of the Austrian fortress of Przemyśl.

The Austrian attempt to cut off the Russian attackers, the message says, finally has broken down and the Austrians now are in retreat along the river San.

According to Russian information, Wirtallen is the only obstacle to a general advance of the whole Russian front into East Prussia. The Germans, it is declared, soon will be forced to evacuate, being threatened by a flanking movement of the Russians.

The backward movement of the remainder of the German line left this point without sufficient support.

The Russian consul-general at Constantinople, arriving at Odessa, stated that the Turkish officials were surprised at Russia by the sudden offensive taken by the Turkish fleet in the Black Sea. The consul-general said:

"The news of the Turkish bombardment became known in Constantinople some time after the occurrence. Admitting that Turkey was fully prepared for war, nevertheless German action precipitated the crisis. It regarded the extreme courtesy shown to Russian officials two days following the Turkish attack as proof of Turkish attack at recent events."

An unusually large guard of picket troops was placed at the disposal of the Russian ambassador, the consul-general said, and the grand vizier's private secretary personally supervised and facilitated the departure of the Russians.

The branch of the Russo-Asiatic bank at Batoum (on the east side of the Black Sea) has transferred its deposits and documents to Baku on the Caspian.

Austrian troops are pushing through the passes of the Carpathians to support the Austrians who are falling back before the Russian advance in the region west of the San river. A correspondent at Lemberg states that these troops have been exhausted by the struggle through the snow-filled mountain passes and are incapable of a serious resistance.

Declare Germans Will Have to Quit East Prussia.

Petrograd, Nov. 6.—The war office claims that the Germans are retreating precipitately into East Prussia, with the Russian armies harassing them at every point. The cold weather has apparently demoralized the Germans, and many of them are reported surrendering without a fight. At several points the Russians have already penetrated the Prussian border, and some of the reports indicate that the German left wing has been Military experts here declare the Germans cannot hope to hold East Prussia and they are expected eventually to withdraw from there entirely, concentrating on their secondary defense line of forts.

The Russian invasion of Turkey continues in force, and in every encounter to date the Turks have been beaten.

Paris, Nov. 6.—Despite the declaration in today's official statement that the situation in the north is unchanged, there are plenty of evidences that from the standpoint of the allies material gains are being made.

The Belgians control both banks of the Yser and have mounted guns, which will absolutely prevent the Germans using boats in the flooded area. The French are pushing the Germans back on Lille. A combined force has held Arras and again forced the enemy back from Armentieres and well to the north of Lille. A combined force has been attacking the German positions in the vicinity of Ypres. An attempt by a greatly strengthened German force to take the offensive to the Argonne has been repulsed with heavy losses in a series of brilliant French bayonet charges.

Officials at military headquarters here say that a report today received that the Germans when the Germans began their retreat from the Marne. The attack was everywhere either on the offensive or are holding their present lines. Where the Germans were able to make gains in the fighting up to Nov. 1, they now have been forced to surrender that advantage.

This is emphasized by the official statement which comments on the presence of veteran troops in the reinforcements being brought up by the Germans. While the official statement explains that the presence of these first-line troops might indicate an attempt at a new offensive, it is likely they have been pushed to the front to "palliate bloody repulses which have been inflicted."

These fresh troops are the ones reported yesterday from Dutch sources as being sent to the front via Aix-la-Chapelle and Liege. If they had reached the front a week ago they might have scored an important success. But now the entire northern line has been reinforced by more than a quarter of a million men, and there is not an officer at headquarters here who is not convinced that the German offensive in the west has commenced to wane.

Between the Somme and the Oise and between the Oise and the Meuse there has been fighting, but without material result, and a German wagon train has been destroyed west of Roye by French Artillery. Sapignone near Berry-An-Bas, has been retaken from the Germans.

The commander of the French destroyer Adventurer has been commended for the decoration of the Legion of Honor, because his vessel demolished an important German battery while maneuvering along the Belgian coast. In the face of a terrific bombardment he ran his boat close ashore and silenced the German guns which were causing great havoc in the Belgian ranks.

German Right Smashed Like a Fallen Wine Glass

London, Nov. 6.—The Daily Mail correspondent in the north of France, under date of Nov. 5 describes the relief felt in Dunkirk, Calais and the neighboring towns and villages at the retreat of the Germans which, he declares, amounts to nothing less than a rout. He says:

"The German right is smashed like a fallen wine glass. Guns, stores, rifles and even the wounded were abandoned in the rush from this fatal battlefield. The chance of the Germans was well on the wane when the flooding of their positions came as a climax of the disaster."

There is now left no more than a remnant of the German force which met its fate at the Yser. Thirty thousand Germans, say the Belgians, have been put out of the fight on this line. Not a single gun remains on this side of the river and the unburied dead, the drowned and the wounded, with the memory of all the trials of wounded, left one to think that there is no overreaching of the enemy's loss. There must be many thousands of prisoners."

Report Kaiser Leading Whirlwind Coast Move.

London, Nov. 6.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail News in the north of France, under date of Thursday, telegraphs as follows:

"The main fighting is now proceeding farther south around Arrmentieres and on the frontier line a few miles east of Nieuport."

"Lille is burning and battered. The allies have been 'in and out of the city and our shells set the town alight at the western end. If we cannot bound the enemy out we must drive him toward Flanders with flame and smoke."

"It is reported that Emperor Wilhelm with his staff is directing the withdrawal from Tournai, Belgium, with Boulogne and Calais as the objective, via Hasebroeck and St. Omere, where, if the Germans can break through, there is a clear run to the coast. The battle here will not be decided for several days."

Germans Lose 50,000 at Ypres

London, Nov. 6.—The correspondent of the Times in Paris de Calais sends the following under Thursday's date:

"I am credibly informed the German losses in the supreme attack on the British between Ypres and Lille are well in excess of 50,000."

"The fighting is still proceeding, but its fury has spent itself. The Germans were repulsed, but it rather early got to emphasize suggestions of German demoralization."

London, Nov. 6.—Turkey is holding the consuls of the allied powers at a number of points as hostages. This is reported in advices reaching here via Athens and has caused intense indignation in official circles. Before the Turkish ambassador and his staff departed from London it was stated that all French and English diplomatic and consular officials had been promised immediate safe conduct out of the country. That promise is now being violated in many instances, and the Turks are detaining these officials in violation of the principles of international law.

Albania is again a centre of disturbance today. Reports from both Athens and Rome say there have been a number of serious conflicts between Musselmans and Christians and that a general massacre of Christians is feared.

Czar's Troops Sweep Turks Before Them.

Athens, Nov. 6.—Defeated and demoralized by the suddenness of the Russian attack, the Turkish border army in Armenia is broken up and will be moved to another position.

The Russians threw four flying columns across the border into Armenia and after routing the Turks is pushing rapidly forward toward Bismar. A second column, which took Fort Bayazet after three hours of fighting, is also moving into the interior.

The Russian attack disarranged all of the Turkish army council's strategic plans, and the Turks had expected that the Russians would be caught short of troops in Caucasus, and had prepared several columns with which to strike.

The Turks, now reduced to the necessity of fighting a defensive campaign, are reorganizing their line and are diverting troops originally intended for operations against the British in Egypt toward Armenia. The Turkish army, concentrated at Karsakles, Gladia and Arsal, has moved back from these positions to others, the location of which is not revealed.

The bombardment of the Dardanelles forts by the Anglo-French fleet at long range continues. While one small magazine is understood to have been exploded, the damage up to the present time has not been great. The Turks are reserving their fire and have responded with only a few shots.

One way to relieve habitual constipation is to take regularly a mild laxative. Doan's Regulets are recommended for this purpose. See a box at all drug stores.

GERMAN STEAMSHIP SAFE IN BOSTON

Boston, Nov. 6.—After an uneventful run along the shores of the Gulf of Maine, the German liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie entered Massachusetts waters after 1 p. m. today and reached her winter anchorage in Boston harbor about sunset.

Steaming two hours before dawn from Frenchman's bay, where she had run for safety at the outbreak of the war three months ago, the Cecilie skirted the coast, dodging the reefs off the mouths of the Penobscot and Kennebec rivers with two United States torpedo boat destroyers running along side the pilot fishes ready to give warning of the approach of hostile ships.

The steamer was in sight of land for the entire distance. She passed Swan's Island at sunrise, and was abreast of Matthews rock, the outermost of the Penobscot ledges, two hours later. She passed Sealus Island, off the Kennebec, at 10, and then headed across to Boone Island leaving Portland Lightship well to starboard and being nearly two miles off shore, when she steamed by the entrance to Portland harbor.

The Cecilie was abreast of Boone Island at 12.30 and went by the Isles of Shoals half an hour later. She entered Massachusetts waters about 1.30 and then United States Marshal Wilson of Portland turned the custody of the steamer over to Deputy Morse of Boston.

Except for a rain squall from off the Mt. Desert hills, the weather was fair, with a soft northwesterly piping over the shoreline and some little sea when well off shore.

CO-OPERATION

"Come," said the little Fiber-Atoms,
"Let us cling together and march together.
Millions and millions and millions are we;
Let us form and march like the waves of the sea,
With shoulder to shoulder, hand linked in hand,
Line behind line of us. Here we stand!
Steady, there! Wait for the word of command.
Steady, my comrades! Is everything right?
Now, all as one of us, into the night!"
So they clung together and marched together,
And the world was filled with light.

II.

"Come," said the little Vibrations-In-Air,
"Let us cling together and work together,
Starting not off on our separate tracks,
But all within touch, that whatever each lacks
The rest may supply, and that each, great or small,
May something contribute—to soar, run, or crawl—
Toward the one common end; there is work for us all!
And mingling our efforts, the weak with the strong,
Break we a path through the silence along!"
So they clung together and helped one another,
And the world was filled with song.

III.

"And now," said the children of men on earth,
"Let us cling together, and work together,
And help one another, and turn our words
Into golden action, and sheathe our swords!
Let us tunnel the mountain, span the plain,
Stretch hands to each other across the main,
And each man's wealth be for all men's gain;
Then unto his neighbor let every one
Say, 'Be of good courage, and let the word run.'
So they clung together, and, lo, as in heaven
His will upon earth was done!"

TEN STATES NOW
UNDER FEDERAL QUARANTINE

Estimated That It Will Cost
$2,000,000 to Suppress Epidemic.

(Special to The Herald)

Chicago, Nov. 7.—With ten states now under Federal quarantine and three more placed under state quarantine, and cases of foot and mouth disease appearing in the vast area from Massachusetts to the Mississippi river, and from Montana to the Mississippi, the Federal officials here today estimated that the cost of suppressing the epidemic would approximate $2,000,000. The local stock yards were closed today, but there was plenty of life in evidence in the efforts being made by the vast army of men to carry out the orders of the state inspector in disinfecting the yards. While no cattle will be handled, the shipments of dressed meat will continue as usual.

POLICE COURT.

Thomas Melbert of Boston, who quit his job with the Warren Brothers on Friday, had good intentions of taking a train for the Hub, but he changed his itinerary and made several visits to the camps where booze hoisting feasts were in order. He completed his schedule by winding up on Cornwall street, where he attempted to start a rough house and engage in conduct not becoming a gentleman at the home of Mrs. Anna Cusumakwa.

Anna claims Thomas made improper advances and in the scuffle he handled her very roughly. Anna's husband went on the hunt for Melbert, while some one sent in a call for the police. Officers Anderson and McCaf-fer reported at the scene just as

Thomas started on a marathon up the roadbed of the Boston and Maine. He was unable to sprint to any extent and the cops checked his speed after one hundred yards had been covered.

Today in court, Thomas attributed his actions to the anti-prohibition elixir and attempted to bring out a few mercy 'drugs from the judge. The evidence of Mrs. Cula Yaplonska, an innate of the same domicile, through an interpreter to the court, put a crimp on the appeal of Melbert and

Judge Torrey ordered nice warm quarters for him during the winter months at the jail. He will go on the liberty list for the first time, in April, 1915.

Aaron Gustafsson, facing a charge of larceny was up for a hearing at the morning session and after a short preliminary he politely admitted that he was guilty. Aaron has been employed as a tailor at the establishment of George H. Palm on Congress street, which was recently purchased from

Andrew Brennan. On Thursday night

he annexed himself to three suits of clothes, an overcoat, a few fancy vests and a pair of shears. He closed a deal with a pawn shop and the wearing apparel was soon off his hands.

Palm put the case up to the police and they were lucky enough to recover

all but one suit of the glad rags.

The court ordered Gustafsson to furnish bonds in the sum of $200 for a further hearing at the April term of superior court. He was unable to produce the required kale and went to jail.
